Over the last four months, six Year 9 students from Co-op Academy Failsworth together with students from other Co-op Academies across Greater Manchester, have been participating in the 'Thanks for the Memories' project, coordinated jointly by the Royal Northern College of Music (RNCM) and the University of Oxford. Through this project they have learnt about music theory and composition, as well as the science and history that underpins our understanding of immunity and vaccinations. This has been used as inspiration for some original pieces of music that they have composed.

The culmination of this project is having their pieces performed by professional musicians at the RNCM in central Manchester, in one of their incredible concert halls. The students themselves will also perform a group piece that they have composed.

We warmly invite you and all students, parents, carers and members of the wider school community to attend this performance on Thursday 9th May at the RNCM. Doors will open at 6:30pm, with the performance commencing at 7pm and expected to finish by 9pm.

Book now to secure your FREE ticket via this link, or scan the QR code below.

This is a great opportunity to come together and celebrate the hard work and achievements of our students. We look forward to seeing as many of you as possible there.

Yours faithfully,

Phill Quirk
Headteacher
